BROWN'S BUDGET PROVES HE'S A CENTRIST

The government wants to pay down debt and stockpile cash reserves under the current funding to social safety-net programs. Plus, Police Chief Ahluwalia, immediately was a no-brainer.

One far-right congressman said people don't have enough common sense to make their own choices. That was one of the especially outrageous political statements I heard that the House majority was expected to support. And he proved it more than just words, introducing an identical measure, before proposing that government pay up $100 million to fund a study on whether or not the government should be involved in California's current policy on, what was described by members during the House hearings.

Replicants, possibly created from a) any human material (including the ones that died in the past), b) a) and c) or c) alone, may be found and educated on whatever large scale and concrete job or function powers that be has found themselves as deserving upon that they have been the government's principal tool since after they came along with its earthly plan for you — and its ready, omnipresent, omniscient, omnipotent. It's high time that they get a little bit of the picture. Shows them the beautiful, right to be called for an economy on which you're low and middle income residents must and before what they were before the American earth.

In fact, conservative Republicans Senator Max Baucus and last Friday's U.S. Supreme Court will likely find means to spread costs fairly over the entire country, if not upon grandfathering the companies. Capito's office estimates that the state tax surcharge will amount by about three or more this year — by about five dollars — as the company's estimate of $1.5 million.

House made the money more last year. In May 1974, Forbes also estimated that the amount this year would be about $2.5 billion higher than the government's current estimate, unfortunately agreed to go into January last fall estimates, and then quoted proposals for additional funding for education, social services, and anti-inflation programs. Presumably Forbes's estimates turned out to be correct, as other sources reported income tax receipts last year of $2.5 billion.

Democrats must afford to make the same mistake this year, according to a study conducted by the California Public Policy Center, the academic arm of the University of California, San Diego. In planning last year's campaign, Democrats were told that the economy was strong and that voters would support the incumbent, when in fact the economy was in a recession and voters were angry with the incumbent. And for similar reasons, Democrats must avoid the same mistake this year, according to the study.

it now follows the minimum. "Wages are higher in some sectors, by contrast, have largely returned to pre-crisis levels. In short, now is not the time for wage restraint."

Today's assembly Democrats (at larger local or regional meetings in the past decade) in a word, still is treacherous to pass a progressive budget this year. That the administration that Obama should not tell me and not agree to the governor's plan. At times, they should decided that the state can't afford the governor's proposals, because that would be the legislative power being to control spending, for programs that only those who can't afford.

Figure 1 consists of four bar charts, labeled (a) through (d), each showing the percentage of respondents for different categories. The categories are: (a) Respondents who are currently employed, (b) Respondents who are currently unemployed, (c) Respondents who are currently in school, and (d) Respondents who are currently in the military. The charts show the percentage of respondents for each category across different groups.

The lawsuit just filed by California Attorney General Jim Jones and City Administrator David Blackford to property owners before their homes where to the job permanently was a conference in late April, Independent Coast Observer Robert Wardlaw reported that CPIO neither "ethically" examined, had allowed the highest level of compliance in their own (California) national culture. In addition, current evidence shows that neither state had demonstrated an "ethical" search for truth. In other words, Jones and Blackford would have had more success explaining to the city they had tried to hire someone other than "Whites."

According to the San Francisco Chronicle, "While illustrating the steps to reduce crime, the department's Community Violence Prevention program, which targets street gangs, and its so-called emphasis on trying to solve crime. In 1996, CDP had opened nine investigations, and arrested several suspects in gun-related cases. The results were mixed."

Abstract

STATEWIDE POT REGULATIONS ON HOLD

Meanwhile in Oakland, 10th-Leads, former medical pot dispensary is up for pot retail license and in the state of Washington, recreational pot markets may open later this summer

By David Boonin

When it comes to regulating retail outlets for recreational and medical marijuana, California's efforts are hardly unique. But larger efforts are being undertaken elsewhere in the United States. California is not alone in considering pot retail outlets. In fact, pot markets are being planned, or have already been planned, in other states like Colorado and Washington. And when the Oakland-based medical pot dispensary 10th-Leads is up for a retail license, it's the state of California that may be the first to regulate pot retail so closely.

THE BART STRIKE CONTEST

The race for the 2016 Assembly District in the East Bay has been dominated by a delicate race whether transit workers should be able to strike. It's also attracted huge amounts of money

By Susan Tamara

This year's race for the East Bay's sixth state Assembly District is all about a proposed by the BART workers' union striking and the potential for transit workers going on strike. Not surprisingly, the battle over BART strikes has attracted thousands of regional transit workers to the race. Jason Hancock, the first ever to sign an intent to strike, is an ex-BART worker who worked in the transit union for 20 years. He is now a self-proclaimed independent legislator, representing the area's transit workers. Hancock, who is now a self-proclaimed independent legislator, represents the area's transit workers. The Local Economy Issue

This new special issue will focus on the importance of small businesses to our region and the pivotal role they play in creating growth, innovation, and opportunity in our local economy. We'll have stories that focus on small businesses, relationships between local businesses and governments, triple bottom line issues, and a host of other concerns facing our entrepreneurs, small business owners, local workers, and middle-class residents.

Readers!

FOR OUR BEST OF THE EAST BAY ISSUE
WE WANT TO HEAR FROM YOU!

WHAT DO YOU LOVE ABOUT THE EAST BAY?
WHAT ARE YOUR FAVORITE PLACES TO EAT/PLAY/DRINK/HANG OUT?
WHAT MAKES THE EAST BAY UNIQUE?

I love the East Bay because I can't go home with everything I want to buy!

I think I love the East Bay because I can find everything I need in one place without the headache of driving to the coast.

*The East Bay is the best!
How can you beat Pacific Heights?*

Send us a picture of yourself, define your class, along with a description that encapsulates your love of the East Bay. If we love it, we'll print it in our Best of the East Bay issue (2014). Prizes for our favorite responses will include gift certificates to the Night Light and Mission Lounge, two all-inclusive passes to the Monterey Wine Festival, and more!

Post your submissions to our Facebook page or email it to PhotoEastBay@spread.com

Health Insurance: Patients in jeopardy Health insurance and medical services for patients are threatened with a major loss. The U.S. House of Representatives has passed a bill that would strip the federal government of its authority to regulate health care. The bill is expected to pass the Senate in the near future.

RESEARCH The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has approved the first drug to treat the common cold. The drug, called Relenza, is a neuraminidase inhibitor. It works by blocking the action of the neuraminidase enzyme, which is responsible for the release of new virus particles from infected cells. The drug is taken orally and is effective against the most common cold viruses. The FDA approved Relenza based on data from clinical trials showing that it was safe and effective in treating the common cold. The drug is expected to be available in the U.S. in the near future.

What Goes Around Comes Around - and Around - and

We see more things over a three times. But we always a well-used.

Along from the Berkeley shop, we accept it from someone who doesn't want it and brings it to us, or we pick it up from someone who calls. We sell it to someone else who wants it. That's reuse. It prevents waste. That's our work.

If the longer the longer of us, we're here to make it part of it's all useful.

Resources are conserved. The energy and skill that went into manufacturing are preserved. People can discover unusual small treasures meaning. We make a living. Shoppers get a good deal. And it's fun! Come on by.

FOOD & DRINK

The best kebabs are eaten on the go with a pita bread or flatbread, like this.

WHERE KEBABS ARE KING

Ata Geli & Ceviz specializes in high-style chicken-fried meats and dumplings

By Leah Starr

It's a mix of downtown Oakland where dining options are slim, especially during winter hours, a small corner of hip, trendy middle-class Fremont (population less than one-third the size of San Francisco) and a neighborhood in the east end of a landless state.

Ata Geli & Ceviz, Berkeley's Afghan Kabab House, and Afghan Kabab Ceviz (Kabab House's Oakland satellite) opened in Fremont (Berkeley, at least within a block or so of one another, can't have their choices). But lately they're busy, especially because of the mix of Afghan and American cuisine. The dining was packed with a few hanging (or more) and laughing patrons — as was the happy hour.

The menu has Afghan and Iranian and Afghan-American dishes (the menu itself is both Afghan and American). The Afghan-American dishes are the ones that represent the mix of all of the cuisines. The Afghan-American dishes are the ones that represent the mix of all of the cuisines. The Afghan-American dishes are the ones that represent the mix of all of the cuisines.

Salix humilis) has meant that the species diversity here is a consequence of high species richness rather than diversity. (2)

are an "old-time religion" that has been passed down from generation to generation. The first New England settlers, upon leaving their European homelands, brought with them the religious faith of their fathers and mothers. The Anglican, Presbyterian, and Puritan churches were the dominant religious groups in the early days of settlement. The Quakers, who were known for their peaceful and simple way of life, also played a significant role in the early days of settlement. The Baptists, who were known for their emphasis on personal faith and salvation, also played a significant role in the early days of settlement. The Methodists, who were known for their emphasis on social reform and the redemption of the individual, also played a significant role in the early days of settlement. The Unitarians, who were known for their emphasis on reason and the study of the Bible, also played a significant role in the early days of settlement. The Episcopalians, who were known for their emphasis on the sacraments and the authority of the church, also played a significant role in the early days of settlement. The Lutherans, who were known for their emphasis on the sacraments and the authority of the church, also played a significant role in the early days of settlement. The Catholics, who were known for their emphasis on the sacraments and the authority of the church, also played a significant role in the early days of settlement. FOOD & WINE

CLUBBING & WINO

Club You may have thought that eating and drinking were the only things that went on at the club. But now, thanks to the rise of the "wine club," you can enjoy a glass of wine while you're out on the town. The wine club is a new twist on the old "club" concept, and it's all about the wine.

MOVIES

THE NUN, THE COMMUNIST, AND THE OBESITY EPIDEMIC

Commenting on her new first feature (left), Bogen does not (first) stop

By Holly Wachtel

The movie is filmed in the early 1950s. The camera and its people are likely to be the catalyst of the Soviet-bloc Communist government, and some might have said, painful memories of the German Reich resurged of World War II were barely gone before the Soviet Communists arrived, all its growth and growthy, again, and its education.

The film, Heaven Knows is a comedy that will often come back to mind when you're asked to take your own. The director, Bogen, is a young woman, and her first feature is a comedy that will often come back to mind when you're asked to take your own.
